New Sensations Are Awaited In 'Trunk Murders'

Winnie Ruth Judd Appears
Before Grand Jury in Surprise Move Today.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 29.—Startling new developments in the Winnie Ruth Judd "double trunk murder case" were awaited today. Following the surprise appearance before the Maricopa-co grand jury of Mrs. Judd, "velvet tigress," under sentence to be hanged Feb. 17 for the killing of Agnes Anne Lerol, the jurors were to assemble again today.

Unconfirmed reports were current in this desert city of the double tragedy that the mystery figure who has lurked in the background of the sensational case was to be named openly—possibly in a grand jury indictment.

STORY SAME
What the pretty young Mrs. Judd told the jurors in a six-hour session remained a closely guarded secret, but the story she told of the killing of Mrs. Lerol and another intimate woman friend, attractive Miss Hedvig Samuelson, was believed by her attorneys to have been the same she had told Sheriff J. R. McFadden and counsel within the past week.

The story, according to Chief Defense Counsel Arthur Verge, was in effect, that she had shot and killed the two women in self-defense while a Phoenix man was intoxicated in the "murder bungalow."

After the killing, Mrs. Judd declared, the man sent her away and she was alone with the bodies in the trunk. Later, she transferred the parts of the bodies to a suitcase and together with the trunks shipped them to Los Angeles. She rode to Los Angeles on the same train that conveyed the grisly remains.

TEACHERS FOR DR. MORT PLAN

Decision Unanimous; Painesville Man Re-elected State's President.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—The Ohio Education association mouthpiece for thousands of school teachers, today added its voice to the clamor requesting Governor George White and the state legislature to bring order out of chaos in Ohio's school financing system.

The unanimous approval of the resolution plan of Dr. Paul R. Mort, Columbus university expert, for refinancing public schools in Ohio, was voted by 1200 delegates at closing sessions of the annual convention late yesterday.

John R. Williams, Painesville school superintendent who was re-elected president, was instructed to direct an intensive campaign among teachers to throw the weight of public opinion behind the Mort plan.

Dr. Mort's proposal was already enroute to the governor and the legislature from another direction—from the governor's school survey commission, which helped design the plan, and then voted its endorsement at a meeting here Tuesday.

It provides for the state to take responsibility for schools by levying a new tax to raise a state-aid fund of $28,000,000. The real estate tax, now paid for the operation of schools, would be greatly reduced.

MARRIAGE LASTS FOR THREE HOURS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29.—A new record for brevity of Hollywood marriages loomed today for the former Elinor Fair, beautiful brunet film star, who announced she had employed counsel to seek an annulment of her romantic marriage to John Daniels, aviator-broker at Yuma, Ariz., Tuesday.

Miss Fair revealed she had taken annulment steps exactly three hours after the marriage.

Herbert Gibson, Columbus, arrested by Constables Baker and Spangler of Harrison-twp on a charge of impersonating an officer was fined $25 and costs in Squire Tom Garner's court in Ashville Wednesday afternoon.

Money Listed in March, September Collection More Than Estimate

FIGURES RELEASED

Checks Mailed From
Auditor's Office

Expressing their opinions that the collection of tangible and classified taxes was good and that the various taxing districts will receive amounts generally in excess of estimates, County Auditor Cliff M. White, and Deputy T. D. Krimm, Thursday announced figures of money released.

The tangible personal tax collected in March and September of the fiscal year amounted to $32,071.28 and was distributed as follows: state, $357.97; county, $6,779.06; sinking fund, $1,252.89; township general, $733.39; township roads, $1,678.90; schools, $15,560.83 and corporations, $5,807.84.

Intangible or classified tax collected was $23,438.30 and was divided as follows: state, $227.36; county, $703.15; corporations, $11,253.89 and schools, $11,253.90. The townships do not share in this distribution.

MANSFIELD SEES BUSINESS UPTURN

MANSFIELD, Dec. 29.—Mansfield had reason to believe today that things are going to see the light of day in the city, beginning January 3, three days after the opening of the new year, 350 men will be added to the payrolls of the Mansfield, Fredericktown and Hillsboro plants of the Sun Glass Industries, Inc., it was announced by William Switzer, vice president and general manager.

CONGRESSMAN HILL WILL BE SPEAKER

Congressman Luster Hill, of Montgomery, Ala., who so fluently addressed Pickaway-co Democrats a few days before the election, has been engaged as the speaker for a Jackson banquet at Lancaster to be held on January 16, it was learned today.

Mr. Hill's address here was one of the finest ever heard by a local audience and it is expected a number of local Democrats will journey to Lancaster to hear him.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Dec. 29.—Ten stevedores, all married, were drowned today when a steamer rammed and sank their launch at the mouth of Napier harbor. Twenty others were rescued.

'Jimmy' Cox Asserts He is 'Too Busy' To Accept Roosevelt Cabinet Post

Dayton Man, Much-Mentioned For Federal Position, Tells Miss Dungan He Has Been Offered Berth But His Newspaper Work Takes Too Much Time.

James "Jimmy" Cox, of Dayton, will not be a member of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt's cabinet for the simple reason that he doesn't want to be.

This information was given to Miss Jemima Dungan, district central committeewoman, in a telephone conversation Wednesday by the former Ohio governor himself.

When asked by Miss Dungan concerning his contemplated political activities Mr. Cox replied that his newspaper work was so pressing that he cannot find time to do anything else. He implied that he had been offered a place in the cabinet but had declined because of business reasons.

Mr. Cox's statement to Miss Dungan clears him from the field of possible cabinet members. His name has been circulated freely throughout the state and nation as possible director of the interior.

SHERIFFS PLANNING DETECTIVE SYSTEM

Bureau of State Officers To Combat 'Big Time' Racketeering
System Being Sought by Buckeye Sheriff's Association.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Ohio will be called on early in 1933 to create a bureau of state detectives to combat racketeering activities which have broken out in Cleveland, Toledo and Akron with the use of "Al Capone methods."

Opha Moore, secretary of the Buckeye State Sheriff's association, announced today that plans are nearly completed for asking the legislature to lend state assistance to the victimized cities.

The police, Moore declared, are powerless to fight a lone battle against racketeers who are reproducing typical Chicago gang scenes in an outbreak of attacks on Ohio legitimate business.

CREATING BILL

Sheriff Fred C. Alber of Cuyahoga-co, Sheriff-Elect Ray Potts of Summit-co, and Sheriffs Wayne Wingett of Athens-co and Thomas E. Gracey of Guernsey-co, are drawing up a bill for the creation of a system of "state sheriffs" which would cost $50,000 yearly.

From a dozen to 15 expert detectives, skilled in the ways of the underworld, would be employed to begin war on desperate racketeers now working in Ohio after being driven from Chicago and Detroit.

Dry cleaning shops, theaters, barbershops, grocery stores and even small shops have been bombed and dynamited in Ohio in recent weeks. The owners, questioned by police, tell stories of refusing gangland demands for "protection."

"Tough-looking characters," they say, demanded payment of large sums to assure protection against complete destruction of property.

"There is no doubt," Moore said today, "but that these men are among those expelled from Chicago in clean-up efforts there since Al Capone was sent to the penitentiary."

Ordinary police methods will not silence their machine guns or muffle their bombs, he added.

"Information reaching me reveals that they are congenial criminals—experienced practitioners of violence."

MANY NATIVES

"Many of them are native Ohioans. Usually these do not operate in their home cities. Clevelanders go to Toledo and Akron, and vice versa."

"In this way they confuse the police, who are unable to trace them to local haunts. Moreover, the local police are busy with routine criminal detection. They are not equipped to combat a big outbreak from gangsters."

Out-of-the-state detective talent would have to be brought into Ohio to assist a few native detectives of proven ability if the system of "state sheriffs" were established.

Guards are on duty 24 hours a day at several Cleveland shops located in the gangland area, according to word reaching Moore. Storefronts are barricaded against flying bullets. In Toledo a girl, an unintended victim, was shot and killed in a machine gun attack opened by one gang faction against another.

Governor George White is soon to be approached on the remedial proposal of the Buckeye State Sheriff's association.

ANOTHER FOG STRIKES CITY

No Accidents Reported In County; Columbus Traffic
Halted By Mists.

Despite the fact that a heavy pea-soup fog overhung Circleville and Pickaway-co Wednesday night and early Thursday no accidents were reported to police, garages or hospital.

The fog was different from that of Tuesday night in the respect that it lifted earlier.

The fog, probably, was worse between Columbus and this city than anywhere else in this vicinity. Some automobile drivers were forced to drive with their windshield wipers open in order to see the road. Others waited until some braver autoist appeared then fell in behind his car.

Traffic was at a stand-still in Columbus.

The heavy fog condition, it is reported, was due to a high pressure area from the Great Lakes southward, to cold soil and moisture in the air.

INJURED WOMAN LEAVES BERGER

Mrs. Ida Auburn, 32, of Pomeroy-pl, Columbus, who was badly hurt in the accident at the intersection of the Jackson-pk and the Williamsport-pk last Saturday night, was removed from Berger hospital to Columbus Thursday.

Her condition is not good, hospital attaches reported.

GARBO TO RETURN

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 29.—Greta Garbo will return to Hollywood during the first two weeks of January, it was learned today when she received her passport from the American legation.

Miss Garbo came to Sweden several months ago for a rest after the expiration of her film contract.

CHILLICOTHE'S HUCKSTER LAW REPEAL ASKED

Dozen Wholesale Merchants and Jobbers
Claim "Boycott" Hurts

JACKSON-CO IRED

Law is "Boomerang,"
Miller Asserts

Asserting that the city's recently enacted ordinance to prevent "huckstering" has proven a "boomerang" 12 of Chillicothe's leading wholesale and retail merchants have petitioned city council to repeal the action. The ordinance has resulted in a "boycott" being set up by Jackson county merchants in Jackson, Wellston and Coalton, it was declared.

Local council is contemplating such a huckster ordinance.

The council, surprised by the action, referred the matter to the committee which had reported the ordinance for passage. It is expected a meeting will be held with Chamber of Commerce officials before taking action on the petition.

MILLER SPOKESMAN

The petition was presented by O. R. Miller, member of the firm Siegfried & Miller, wholesale confectioners, who said it represented "about 100 per cent of the wholesalers and jobbers" and that he had started to secure the signatures of retailers but decided it was not necessary to secure a large number of signers.

The petition asks the removal of the ordinance on the ground that it has acted as a "boomerang" and resulted in a "boycott" on dealers who operate in Jackson-co who claim that the ordinance has "put a wall" around Chillicothe and that Jackson-co coal is barred by the

President-Elect to Have Sweeping Powers in Slashing Bureaus

LEADERS AGREE

Powers After March 4
Would Be Huge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt will be given sweeping power to re-organize the federal government and abolish unnecessary bureaus under a plan approved today by Democratic leaders in both Senate and House.

The authority will be conferred in a "rider" to an appropriation bill either in Senate or House.

Representative Byrnes, Democrat of Tennessee, chairman of the House appropriations committee said that the "rider" will be attached to the last House deficiency bill unless the Senate acts first.

POWERS MIGHTY

While Congress would retain a check upon the incoming president's re-organization work the powers planned are almost czarlike in character.

Speaker John N. Garner endorsed the proposal saying, "I hope that Congress might see fit to give the incoming president broad powers to cut down the expense of government."

Another route to economy being considered by Democratic leaders is repeal of all permanent appropriations thus bringing every item of expense of the government before Congress for scrutiny each year.

The new president thus would be enabled to embark immediately after March 4 upon a campaign of carrying out his campaign pledge to make an effort to cut the cost of the federal government 25 per cent.

The authority is said to be desired by Roosevelt himself. The president-elect, it was reported, informed Democratic leaders recently that "his shoulders are broad" and that he will assume the responsibility.

OPPOSITION SEEN

The president-elect has already been warned by congressional friends that ambitious plans of governmental re-organization have encountered stubborn opposition during the past 12 years.

The plan is advocated by many Democratic senators, who declare that a billion dollars economy and a beer tax bill will not only balance the budget but make tax reduction possible when business improves.

"I favor giving the new president the broadest possible powers to reorganize the government," said Senator Dill (D) of Washington.

Congress this session will cut appropriations more than $600,000,000 over last year, and the greatest economies in the future must come from the abolition of unnecessary activities, Byrnes said.

"I have become convinced that Congress in and of itself cannot with any degree of accuracy adopt a plan of consolidation and elimination of government activities," he observed.

"Congress must have the support of the administration because Congress has not the machinery and information to intelligently accomplish the task. The executive department, with all its personnel, can make surveys, see what bureaus can be limited or abolished."

HOTEL OPERATORS TO DEFY WORLEY'S NEW YEAR'S DECREE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Despite the ruling of city officials, several downtown hotels here intend to permit their guests to dance the new year in. It was reported today.

A city code specifically forbids dancing on Sunday and officials have declared that dances will not be permitted after 12.01 a. m. New Year's Day.

Attaches of several downtown hotels, however, have indicated they will not move to halt festivities in their ball rooms New Year's day morning.

The police department, it was learned, has received no orders to stop dances.

Buckeyes Show Ability To Whip "Irish" Quintet

A 24-8 margin at the end of the first half of play gave the Ohio State basketball team a victory over Notre Dame's tossers at the Coliseum at the state fair grounds Wednesday evening. Outscored 16-6 in the second half the Buckeyes won by a 30-24 score.

The defeat was Notre Dame's second in 21 starts.

The strength of the Buckeyes showed in the first half as astounding. They took advantage of Bill Hosket's reach to gain the tip-off and after each team had taken several unsuccessful shots the Scarlet and Grey started hitting the hoop with regularity. Notre Dame, with several men on the squad who had been suffering from flu, was completely submerged by the Buckeye first half power.

The second half was different, however, with the Irish content to stand back of the foul-line and peg away at the net resulting in the margin being reduced.

KRAUSE HALTED

Big Ed Krause, whose name is as widely heeded on the basketball court as it is on the gridiron, was well handled by the Bucks. He scored only one field goal, that Notre Dame's first basket, on a shot under the net.

While two players, Bill Hosket and Bill Beltner, who joined the ranks of the Buckeyes Wednesday evening after being declared eligible, helped the Ohio team greatly the ability of Bobby Colburn of Dayton and Captain Howard Mattison of Erie, Pa., to score actually decided the issue. T he former counted eight points, all in the first half, and Mattison hit the hoop for nine counters, his basket in the second half being the only action shot the Buckeyes made.

Hosket controlled the tip-off and handled Krause effectively and Beltner, a member of the state championship Dover high school team several years ago, held Mettler and Alberts of Notre Dame, to one field goal between them. He scored four points.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

A CHECK-UP of Central Buckeye league basketball teams discloses that Circleville's chances to retain the league championship, which was won last year after a great season, are not so good to say the least.

Every, yes every, team in the loop has been strengthened except the Tigers and it is safe to say they are weaker than this time last year. Only two letter-men, Hegele and White, are back for Coach Herberholz to build his team around. Hegele has been hitting the hoop with regularity while White has been confining his activities to defense. But that leaves three positions to fill and all must be taken by green men. To say the Tiger mentor has a tough task before him is putting it lightly.

Just what team might copy the gunfalon is beyond the janitor of this column because you can bet your bottom nickel (it used to be dollar) that the team which wins the league's honors this year is going to have a fight on its hands.

De la waka? Is strong with Tooghey, Heinlein, Hays, Hagaman, Conrad, and several other good boys in togs—Sells, flashy center, is the only man to graduate. Grandview has a strong outfit with team play expected to hold sway with no individual star. Bexley is proud of its team and Carlton Smith, the coach, is sure he has a winner. If Columbus sports scribes know about what they are writing. Then we go up to Westerville where Frank Ballenger has been having a tough time getting things going. He has Martin and Schick to build his team around and may prove dangerous, but not too much so.

MARYSVILLE comes next on the list and we're warning you to watch out for Jerry Kingsmore. Last year Jerry asserted, "Give me a tall center and I'll give you a basketball team." He has the tall center, Otte, who played tackle on his football team, and he has exactly the same back he had last year including DeGood, a forward, then McMahon and Brannan and a couple of others, and in practice games this Marysville bunch has been plenty tough. Watch out for them.

LOCAL FANS WILL HAVE A CHANCE TO SEE THE TIGERS IN ACTION ON JANUARY 6 WHEN GRANDVIEW COMES HERE FOR THE FIRST GAME AND IF THE TIGERS HOPE TO HAVE ANY CHANCE IN THE LEAGUE THEY HAD BETTER START WINNING FROM THE START.

These "practice" basketball games which have been booked to give Coach Herberholz a chance to learn just what kind of material he has may work out advantageously just as they did a year ago. At that time New Holland and Stoutsville were met and defeated and when the league chase was ready to start the Tigers were ready for it. Because a game was lost to Salt Creek the other evening confidence of players should not be lowered. These games do not mean a thing as far as the league schedule is concerned.

Evidently ired over the way Salt Creek-Twp beat them the night before the High school cage team turned Tiger again last night to swamp Amanda high school by a score of 49 to 25 in the Fairfield-co court.

In Wednesday night's game the local cagemen displayed the only outburst of championship form that they have shown this season. With Hegele and Leasure leading the Tigers scoring attack the Amanda boys didn't have much time to play with the ball, with Circleville keeping possession the greater part of the game.

During the second and last quarters Coach "Pete" Herberholz used quite a few subs and even these lads seemed to be a blood-thirsty lot of players judging by the way they went after Amanda.

During the first quarter it was decidedly evident that Amanda had a much weaker team than the local club and as a result the score at the end of the quarter showed the locals piling up a substantial lead of 18 to 3.

The second canto was not quite so bad with Circleville garnering seven more counters while Amanda was fighting to get five.

The third quarter was unexciting as the local boys slowed down somewhat and allowed Shaeffer, a guard, to drop nine points through the hoop to make his team total 20 and Circleville, 42.

In the last quarter the Amanda boys started a few rough tactics which were quickly subdued after Coach Herberholz pulled his first string men and allowed the second stringers to go in and play rough too. The scoring in this quarter was more evenly divided with Circleville scoring seven to Amanda's five.

Hegele was high point man for the local aggregation with sixteen counters to his credit while Shaeffer led the Amanda scoring with 13 points.

Two other games were also billed on the evening's basketball card and although short were interesting. The Amanda girls team set back the girl alumni by a score of 21 to 8 with a Miss Kougher leading the scoring with eleven points to the credit side of the ledger.

The boys Alumni set the Amanda High Reserve boys team back by a score of 28 to 3 with Abbott of the Alumni leading the scoring with 14 points.

Boyd of Lancaster refereed the first and last games with Bush of Ohio University refereeing the alumni boys' contest.

Legalizing of Foaming Stein To Bring Musical Renaissance

Celebrated Maestro Predicts Return of Beer Will Mark the End of Jazz and Crooners. Robust Drinking Songs of Old to Take Spotlight.

DR. HUGO RISENFELD

We have been told that prosperity depends on the return of beer. We have also been warned that woe, in large capital letters, will follow in the wake of the foaming bumper. These views have been variously expressed by wet and dry advocates. Now comes a new angle on the question. This time the theorist is none other than Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, celebrated orchestra leader and originator of "classical jazz." The maestro, who recalls the early days of his career as conductor of the Imperial Opera House in Vienna, reminds us that never was there such beautiful music as in the days when a religious quaffing of the frothy liquid followed each performance. Since prohibition, says the doctor, American life has been speeded up to such a pitch that we no longer give full appreciation to the business of living. Hastily-gulped highballs in corner "speaks" have had much to do with this. This rushing has been reflected in our music. Instead of tuneful melodies, we are treated to bleats, whines and explosions. With the return of beer, says the maestro, America will gradually go back to the even tenor of pre-Prohibition days. Hectic jazz will give place to the rousing, melodious drinking songs of yesteryear. Crooners, blues and torch singers will have to find a new outlet for their doubtful talents, for the "hotcha" age will go and "prosit" will make the rafters ring. Composing, too, will be simplified, Dr. Riesenfeld says, for the creation of music always went hand in hand with liquid stimulus.

COMMUNITY OVEN

PHILADELPHIA—A unique outdoor community oven, where is the source of bread for 20 families, whose gas supply was cut off because of their inability to pay their bills.

GIRL IS PIONEER

TONOPAH, Nevada—Margaret Piercy, 18, who has started a four-year electrical engineering course at the University of Nevada, is the only girl ever to undertake such a study at the university.

New Tennis Prexy

Harry S. Knox, of Chicago, who has been nominated for President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association for 1933. Knox is the first man in the Middle West to be so honored since Dwight W. Davis was elected to office in 1923. He will succeed Louis W. Carruthers, of New York, who declined re-nomination.

Bank Assets

WHEN the United States treasury offered $250,000,000 one year certificates to the public a few days ago, with interest at the rate of only three-fifths of one per cent a year, the result was a panic. And yet not long ago, some houses of government that will be absolutely safe, even if they pay so very little interest, is the result of the panicky feeling developed when the depositors of thousands of banks demanded their money right away quick. It led bankers everywhere to feel that they must have their assets in such shape that they could get a large part of their funds in cash at once, regardless whether they get any considerable interest or not.

There is a condition that is being business everywhere, and it is being secured before we can have a good business. If bankers feel that they must have their money in such investments that they can produce a great mountain of cash all at once, naturally they aren't going to lend their money to build houses with, or to finance factory operation, or to enable merchants to purchase goods.

The public has greatly accentuated this situation, by runs on many banks that were perfectly sound. A bank may have a large part of its money in exchange for assets, which are worth 100 cents on a dollar and much more than that. But if the bank had to sell those assets all at once, it might have to take a large loss.

We need new systems of banking regulation that shall require greater caution in managing financial institutions, so that the public will not have reason to become alarmed about its deposits. But the public must get into a correct frame of mind, and not force sound institutions into bankruptcy by unreasonable demands.

Homeless Wanderers

FROM the great cities come distressing tales of homeless men. Crowds of these pathetic folk creep in at night to public shelters, like wild animals crawling into their holes. Next day they will continue their aimless wanderings, they know not where. The family that sits down to night at its quiet firesides here in Circleville warmed and fed, should give a thought to these homeless folk. Where do they come from? How became they homeless? Are they to blame? Is society at fault?

Probably the majority of them get into this condition as a result of a natural roving habit. Such ones were too indolent, too lacking in concentration, to settle down in some job. No employer wants such ones.

Yet many of them started a wandering career as a result of a real hope to find work. The elusive will-o-the-wisp of jobs lured them on from town to town. When they got to a place, there was always someone ahead of them.

These people must belong somewhere. Perhaps many of them come from broken homes, many have no ties of any kind. Some have tramped so long that all memory of them has disappeared. But some of them, particularly the younger fellows of whom so many are wandering, came away recently enough so they could claim help in the old home town. They should swallow their pride down hard, quit roving and go home.

Humane sentiment says that even the most confirmed vagrant must be warmed and fed, even though his bed be only in a police station. But the plight of these miserable folk should be a warning. Young men who contemplate wandering about the country should reflect that the path leads straight to homelessness. If one once gets there, he will probably never return. Stick at home, boys, where you belong and if you are willing to work you will get wither employment or help.

SYNOPSIS

Ted Wynne leaves his position in the Bellport steel mills to work his way through Old Dominion college. He is a brilliant student and shows promise in football. Barney Mack, the coach, makes Ted a quarterback. Tom Stone, another student, and Ted are rivals for the love of wealthy Barb Roth. When Barb breaks a date with Ted in favor of Tom, Ted ignores her. In the fall, Old Dominion wins all its games and Barney is pleased with Ted's playing. Rosalie Downs, a student at Weyrick College, is another admirer of Ted's. Rosalie, the independent, good-fellow type, is the direct opposite of the haughty Barb. In the game against Army, Ted is hurt while tackling Cagle. Stone says he is stalling because he missed.

CHAPTER XIII

Ted could see now. He shook his head; things were clearer. The team was crowded about him; and few Army players.

"Hello—what do you say, there, boy?"

"O. k., Pidge. What happened?"

"You just missed him altogether and he scored," Stone snarled.

"You missed him too, you punk."

Pidge shot back "Four of us had a shot at him. How you feeling, boy?"

"All right."

He got up. A muffled cheer came from the subdued New Dominion crowd in the right field bleachers. Doc Abbot walked with him, gently massaging his neck.

"Maybe you better come out," Paden was warning up.

"No Doc—I'm all right. Tell him I'm all right, see?"

He jogged a few steps; shaking his head, twisting his neck. Head buzzed, there was a sick feeling in his stomach; he wasn't all right; but he was on his feet. Maybe it would pass away; suck it out; show that snake Stone.

Army kicked the point, making the score 7-0. New Dominion lined up to receive the kickoff. By the time they were ready, Ted was set. Nothing in his head but cold resolve; in his heart icy anger.

Shoot the works. New Dominion was trailing for the first time that year, a perfect season endangered. The thing to do was to get that score back. The universe, for the moment, was bounded by a lot of white lines. Barney was leaving them in there—giving them another chance.

Thanks, Barney. There she comes—freeze it, Stone—

Fumble!

Pidge was after it—Ted dove at the end going down, took him out, Pidge hustled by; first down on the twelve-yard line.

"39-14-26-hip—"

On the bench Barney shook his head quickly and started his cigar to pin-wheeling. Big chance, trying 32 there—

But 32 went for twenty-five yards, a pass from Ted to Pidge down over the head of the second—surprise had done it. The halfbacks edged back—tough to sneak through the line with Cagle and Wilson up close—but when they were back—

"Now Stone—let's see what kind of guts you've got—and don't fumble, you rat."

Stone off tackle but Wilson had smelled the play and came up to fill the hole for a two-yard gain.

Pidge, on a delayed back through center, bowled through for nine yards, leaving a string of men in his wake. Ted sent him back through the same hole for six.

The stands were up; excitement on the New Dominion bench; Murrell was running up and down behind the Army line, shouting at granting cadets.

Ted, faking a delivery to Stone, spun, ran back five yards, broke for the left, wheeled, and threw to the opposite corner of the field.

Sheets off tackle for seven Pidge back through center for first down on the thirty-five-yard line.

"What kind of guts have you got, Stone?" Ted whistled into the halfbacks' face.

"Gimme that ball!"

It started as a shift to the right with Sheets carrying; he spun and slipped it to Stone who cut back through center and cut for six yards. On a quick signal Ted stumbled along back of a shoulder-to-shoulder charge for five yards and a first down on the Army twenty-two.

Big Pat Moynoton, at center, was kidding the Cadets.

"A hell of an army we've got—what'll we do if there's a war?"

Time out! Army was on the run—took that method of stopping the charge; huddled together to check its defense—to see what was happening.

Ted tried to chasten his thoughts. He was leading an attack that had the Army on the run—out-thinking the Army. What a world!

To hell with that stuff. Think with them. They'd be better organized; maybe had time to figure out the new stuff of Barney's which he hadn't had to show before.

Lining up! Backs in tighter to protect the line, ends in closer to tighten up the line—hard to run the ends with Cagle and Wilson out there. Army had the running game stopped—blood in their eyes; an opening for a pass; but a pass on first down was too daring. Was it?

Gamble!

"72-25-37-68... hip... one... two... three... four..."

"No—no," Barney called; but his voice was drowned like a child's in the storm that broke in the stands.

The play broke as an off-tackle slice with Pidge leading the interference; shifted to a cutback over center with Stone apparently taking the ball—and developed into a pass as Ted, faking a delivery to Stone, spun, ran back five yards, broke for the left, wheeled, sidestepped the charging tackle and threw to the opposite corner of the field.

Pidge had faked a block of Cagle and kept running—was free—leading the ball—Cagle was stalling to get back—

Pidge lunged back for the ball slipped, reached—the ball grazed his fingers and dropped in the end zone as an automatic touchback.

"A hell of a play on first down when our running attack was going," Stone sneered.

"Dry up," Pidge cried, "another touch and it would have been a touchdown."

"Why didn't he keep it out of the end zone, then—we'd still have the ball!"

He was right; Ted hadn't meant to throw it into the end zone; but the play required a fast disposition of the ball.

They trudged back to the twenty-yard line where Army put the ball in play.

"Take it way and come right back," Big Pat cried.

They took it away but they didn't bring it back. Ted returned Murrell's high punt to the Army forty-yard line but the first team came out.

"Nice drive, Ted—bad break, that's all," Harry Paden said.

Barney said nothing when they came into the bench.

Army's defense stiffened; Cagle and Wilson made two first downs and were checked. The rest of the half was a grueling, man-to-man fight around midfield.

In the dressing room Ted asked Barney:

"Was it a bad play?"

"The way it turned out—yes; I thought it was when you called it; but it was almost a great one. The percentage was a little against it, but if you're in the same spot again, use your judgment."

Quiet. Everybody resting; it wasn't the first time Harry Paden's gang had been asked to pull a tough one out of the fire. They were resting; priming themselves for the test.

Aches As A Weather Barometer

Dr. Copeland Gives Some Facts About Rheumatism

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

RHEUMATISM is one disorder that has baffled science for a long time. It used to be regarded as being long exclusively to the aged.

Don't you remember how your grandparents complained of their "rheumatism"? Their aches and discomforts were used as a barometer to forecast rainy weather. Contrary to the old belief, the disease afflicts children as well as adults.

Rheumatism is an inflammation of the muscles or joints of the body. It is a painful condition, often confused with neuritis, arthritis, and gout. Though great advances have been made in the study of rheumatism, the exact germ responsible for it is not known.

Complications Dangerous

The acute form of rheumatism is spoken of as "acute rheumatic fever." Intense pain and high fever confine the sufferer to bed for many days. Though the disease itself is seldom fatal its complications may continue as a menace to health and in some instances, to life.

The danger of complications can be avoided by the early recognition of the disease. The patient will be kept in bed and follow his doctor's orders.

Involvement of the heart is one of the things that may happen in acute rheumatic fever. Too many children are annually disabled by the heart complications.

I am sorry to say that the diagnosis of rheumatism is often made after the damage has been done. This is particularly true in the case of children. If your child complains of pain in the arms, legs or joints, do not ignore it.

There is no such thing as a "growing pain." The pain commonly given this name is not due to a child growing too fast. Very likely the pain is due to rheumatism and it demands investigation.

Traced to Infection

Many cases of rheumatism can be traced to centers of pus infection such as infected teeth, tonsils, or nasal sinuses. It is important to get rid of all the possible causes of trouble. To this end careful search will be needed. The teeth may not ache, yet when they are X-rayed definite signs of decay and infection are found. The X-ray is of value too in revealing a diseased gall bladder, infected sinuses, chronic appendicitis and other disturbances which may be responsible for the rheumatic pains.

Though rheumatism is most common among those who are poorly housed and poorly fed, it is seen in all classes of persons. Living in damp places, exposure to cold and wet lack of fresh air, sunshine and proper food, must be considered as factors of importance in the disease.

The diet should be simple, nutritious and easily digested. It should include milk, cream, butter, eggs and other foods which carry vitamin A.

Sorcery Ousted by Science

One of the greatest tasks undertaken by the Soviet leaders who undertook the rebuilding of Russia was that of breaking down old superstitions which flourished during the Czarist regime. Gradually, however, the ancient barriers of sorcery and so-called witchcraft have been leveled, even in the most barbaric sections of Eastern Russia. Now the natives, who once regarded a doctor as an agent of the evil one, calmly submit to medical treatment by the skilled emissaries of the Stalin-controlled government. an after-Christmas party. Games of various kinds made the evening merry. A treasure-hunt led the crowd over a winding path through the house, terminating at the kitchen door where each guest received a plate of taffy, the pulling of which caused much excitement. A color scheme of red and green was carried out in decorations and lunch.

Those present were: Mary Jane Schieler, Marjorie Leach, Martha Ellen Wright, Louise Helwagen, Betty Lee Nickerson, Jean Theobald, Betty Bowsher, Leurgene Cook, Ruth Robinson, Bobbie Fickard, Laddie Goeller, David Jackson, Bill Rader, Philip Moore, James Price, James Moffitt, Clark Hunsicker and Dick Maden.

Mrs. Lamb's gown was of green crepe made with a lace yoke, a square neckline and long sleeves. Her shoulder bouquet was of orchids and daisies.

Mrs. Dountz, the bridegroom's mother, wore a floor-length gown of dark blue crepe and lilies of the valley and orchids formed her bouquet.

The couple left for a motor trip south and upon their return will reside at the home of the bride's parents until spring. For traveling the bride was attired in a green rough crepe frock trimmed with gold with which she wore a black seal coat, a black hat and black accessories.

Says Movies Have Intoxicating Effect

DES MOINES, Ia.—There's no difference in going to a movie and getting drunk, in the opinion of Prof. H. W. Bohlman, of Drake University. That is, there's no difference in the psychological reaction in the individual.

"Getting drunk affords a temporary means of escape for a person who is 'tired,' the professor said, "and the movies offer similar escape. Both throw the indulger into an unreal situation. 'I do not mean that movies are a substitute for getting drunk, but psychologically both effects of escape are the same.'"

"The sounds of almost all musical instruments," says a writer, "have their parallels in nature." We still labor under an impression the saxophone is entirely man's own idea.

Flu Is Not Yet Alarming But Precautions Advised

Colds Especially Dangerous Now With Out- break of Flu in This Section

"Avoid All Colds Possible—Treat Every Cold Promptly and Vigorously"—Is Program Urged.

OUTLINE DEFINITE PLAN

As yet, the outbreak of flu in this section has not reached alarming proportions. However, everyone is urged to follow every precaution against its spread—especially to be careful in avoiding and treating colds just now. Colds pull down body resistance and pave the way for flu and all its serious complications.

The safest course to follow is that outlined in Vicks Plan for better Control-of-Colds. This proved Plan combines certain simple rules of health with proper medication, at the proper time. Its effect is to reduce the number and spread of colds—to lessen the severity and duration of those that do come. Briefly, it is this:

To Prevent Many Colds. Live normally—don't worry. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Eliminate, regularly. Drink lots of water. Eat light, wholesome food. Watch yourself and children carefully for any sign of "catching cold."

At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, snuffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. This will check many colds at the nose and throat—where most colds start.

To End a Cold Sooner. If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. Rest as much as possible, preferably in bed. Take a mild laxative—if needed.

At bedtime, massage throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. It acts two ways at once to bring relief: By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster; and by inhalation of the medicated vapors direct to irritated air-passages. No "dosing" to upset delicate digestions and lower body strength when it is most needed to resist disease.

During the day, use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. They add to comfort—help shorten the cold.

If the throat is dry and "tickling," or irritated from coughing, there is pleasant relief in the new Vicks Medicated Cough Drop—ingredients of VapoRub in convenient candy form.

Plan Tested and Proved. In clinical tests among thousands last winter, Vicks Colds-Control Plan reduced the number and duration of colds by half—cut the costs of colds more than half. How you can follow the Plan in your home is fully explained in each Vicks package.

A Telephone Can Help You to Get More Out of Life

If your house has no telephone, you make it very difficult for people to be friendly to you. And you handicap yourself in being a good friend to others. Time is valuable, of course, but a friendly visit by telephone only takes minutes—and it can mean so much.

Of course a telephone has hundreds of purposes, in helping to protect your family, in helping you to make money, etc. But best of all, we like to think of a telephone as something that keeps people happy—keeps them together and makes them friends.
